Dalcroze Eurhythmics is an educational approach that treats the human body as the primary instrument of musical instruction. Through a variety of fun and experiential whole-body learning techniques, Dalcroze study promotes musical coordination, cognition, and enjoyment. Open to all levels and types of musicians, the Dalcroze approach is a fresh perspective on music teaching and learning, and can be cross-applied to a variety of cognate fields, including dance, theatre, general education and therapy.

Led by internationally renowned master teachers, Dalcroze Canada's summer course will explore the three core Dalcroze subjects - Eurhythmics, Solfège, Improvisation, and introduce participants to the related areas of Plastique Animée and Dalcroze pedagogy. Students wishing to pursue Dalcroze Canada's certification designation may count the summer course toward required credit hours.
